TRouble DUE TO OCCUR IN CRETE

ANOTHER TURBULENT CHAPTER OF HISTORY TO BE OPENED.

FOREIGN SOLDIERS LEAVE

Turbulence and Fighting Are Likely To Ensnare On Account Of Agitation For Union With Greece.

London, July 24.—The coming week is to add another important chapter to the turbulent history of Crete, the rugged little island in the eastern Mediterranean which, from the fact that it forms a natural link between Europe and Asia, has always been looked upon with more or less covetous eyes by the rival European powers. Tuesday next is the day fixed for the evacuation of the island by the international troops that for three years past have been maintained there by Great Britain, Russia and Italy to preserve order. Though the various interested powers affect to believe that no serious disturbances will follow the withdrawal of the troops, it is doubtful if any statesman in Europe views the situation as other than one full of trouble and menace.

The trouble in Crete arises from the fact that the island, though a Turkish possession, is inhabited chiefly by Christian Greeks, who have long been agitating for complete union with Greece. When the withdrawal of the international troops is accomplished, the Turks fear that the Christians, with Greek support, may attempt to throw off Turkish sovereignty.

To any such attempt the Young Turks, who are fearful of any further loss of prestige and territory to the empire, will offer the strongest resistance, and advisers recently received from Salonica tell of warlike preparations being pushed on with feverish haste.

Crete has been a theatre of bloody strife since the days of Homer. Torn by civil dissensions, the island maintained its independence under the various Macedonian monarchs, but finally became a Roman province. Subsequently it passed under Venetian rule. It was not till 1842 that the Turks made a serious attempt to effect a conquest. Then they landed with an army of 50,000 men, reduced Candia and Heraklion, and laid siege to Candia, which capitulated after a resistance of twenty years, the most protracted siege on record. The fall of Candia meant the submission of the entire island.

From this time the island continued subject to Ottoman rule till the outbreak of the Greek revolution in 1821. The struggle then was prolonged till in 1830 the allied powers—France, Russia and England—transferred the island to the government of Mehmet Ali, Viceroy of Egypt. In 1840 Crete was again taken from Mehmet Ali and replaced under the dominion of the Turks. The Creteans' desire for freedom resulted in four successive revolts, one in 1840 which was speedily repressed; another in 1866, which continued for some time; and two more, in 1887 and 1888.

Following the revolt of 1888 Shakh Pasha was sent to the island by the Turkish military government and he proclaimed martial law. In 1889 he violated the provisions of the London pact, which had been induced by the powers. Legislative representation was ignored and all the customs receipts of the island were appropriated by Turkey. The island was ruled despotically. Christians refused to go to the polls and general troubles existed. Finally the European powers interfered, and in 1894 a "Christian" was made governor. The legislative assembly was once more established, but trouble at once arose over the question of finances. The revolt assumed formidable proportions and the efforts of the powers failed to stop it.

Finally, in 1897, Greece made an effort to take the island away from Turkish control, and out of this grew the war between Greece and Turkey. Greece sent troops to Crete, but they were victorious in the war, and as a result the Greek troops were withdrawn and Turkish garrisons took their place. They indulged in renewed outrages on the Christians and the old troubles broke out afresh.

As a result of these new troubles the four powers—Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy—again intervened, and constituted the island, with the adjacent islands, an autonomous state under a High Commissioner of the Porte. Prince George of Greece was appointed High Commissioner and it was thought for a time that the troubles of the island were at an end. Prince George made a wise use of his dictatorship, and the powers were well pleased with their choice. He was appointed for a term of three years, and in 1901 the appointment was renewed. But again the old antagonism between Moslem and Christian flared the internal dissension and the result was that the powers were forced to station troops on the island to put down the disorders.

THAW SANITY CASE RESUMED NEXT WEEK

Hearing To Determine As To Soundness Of Mind Of Harry Thaw To Be Resumed Monday.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

The Thaw Case To Date.

April 25, 1905—Harry K. Thaw married Evelyn Nesbit.
June 25, 1905—Thaw killed Stanford White on the roof of Madison Square Garden.
Jan. 23, 1907—First trial began before Justice Fitzgerald.
April 12, 1907—Jury disagreed and was discharged.
Jan. 4, 1908—Second trial began before Justice Bowditch.
Feb. 1, 1908—Thaw was acquitted on the ground of insanity and taken to the Asylum for the Criminal Insane at Mattawan.
May 21, 1908—Justice Morris, chamber at Poughkeepsie dismissed a writ of habeas corpus for Thaw's release from Mattawan.
July 12, 1909—Hearing commenced at White Plains to determine the question of Thaw's sanity.
July 15, 1909—Mrs. Evelyn Thaw testified that her husband had threatened to kill her.
July 16, 1909—Hearing adjourned to be resumed Monday, July 26.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—The winding of the extra session of Congress and departure of its members for their homes or vacation retreats will give to the national capital the proverbial dullness that is said to characterize ditch water. Nearly all of the high officials of the government from the president and his cabinet officers down to the heads and sub-heads of the various departments will be away from town. The president plans to spend the week quietly with his family at Beverly. Wednesday he will take an automobile trip to Boston to attend an informal luncheon of Yale graduates.

Interest will be added to the extra session of the Alabama legislature, which is to meet Tuesday to discuss some needed state legislation, by the fact that it will probably take up for ratification the proposed amendment to the Constitution and be the first to endorse or reject the proposition of an income tax.

Representatives of Virginia will meet in convention in Newport News Wednesday to name candidates for governor and other officers to be voted for at the next state election. The usual confidence on the part of the Republicans of the Old Dominion and the interest which President Taft is reported to take in the situation there will attract more than ordinary attention to the convention.

The case of Harry K. Thaw will come into the limelight again Monday, when the hearing to determine his sanity will be resumed before Justice Mills at White Plains.

Delegates representing all parts of the country will assemble Thursday at Atlantic City to discuss the general subject of employment. The featuring of some plan for uniformity of state laws bearing upon employers' liability and the prevention, if possible, of legislative enactment by any state, in the future, that might conflict with the laws of another state.

The foreign field promises to furnish an abundance of interesting and important news items during the week. The "Minsk" Confederation of Great Britain will determine whether or not there is to be a general strike of the coal miners. The situation is regarded as extremely critical. If a general strike is declared a million men will quit work and the result would be an almost complete paralysis of British industry.

The meeting of President Fallières of France and Emperor Nicholas of Russia, which is to take place in the Cherbourg roads at the end of the week, will be made the occasion for a great naval review in which the fleets of both nations will take part. From Cherbourg the Emperor will cross over to Calais for a brief visit to King Edward.

Other events abroad that will attract more or less attention will be the opening of the Imperial defence conference in London, the world's conference of the Young Men's Christian Association, to be held at Barmen Elberfeld, Germany, and the celebration of the 500th anniversary of the founding of the University of Leipzig.

A THREATENED SUIT HANGS ON ELECTION

If Citizens Of Washington, N. J. Do Not Vote For Sewage Plant, State Will Sue City.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Washington, N. J., July 24.—An election is to be held in this town Monday and the State of New Jersey threatens dire results if the citizens do not go as the State desires. The election is to determine whether the town shall spend $50,000 for the construction of a sewage disposal plant or not. The State says that if the town doesn't adopt the proposition it will at once bring suit against the town for polluting the Shabbecong Creek. Individuals who are guilty will also be sued according to a letter recently received by Mayor Smith from the State board.

Why the State should issue a threat in advance of the election is the question that puzzles the townspeople. They say that if the State board wants to sue let it sue in the event of the improvement being turned down, but it is overstepping all bounds when it tries to influence the vote of the citizens in advance. It is the greatest case of coercion on a large scale, declare the prominent men of the town, that ever was the accompaniment of an election.

Berg told Mr. Barlow that after leaving the asylum he worked in Footville for two days before going further south. He is one of the incurables at the asylum and was sent there from Fulton when twenty-seven years of age in 1890. His wife lives in Edgerton.

LAUNCH CLUB TO ELECT OFFICERS

BOAT OWNERS OF CITY TO MEET MONDAY NIGHT.

MUCH GOOD WORK IS DONE

By Organization in Past Year or So in Removing Stumps and Clearing River For Boat Travel.

Tuesday evening at the municipal court room in the city hall, the Janesville Launch Club will hold a meeting for the election of officers and to attend to some important business which is to come before the meeting. The presence of all members of the club and of all launch owners as well is desired.

Club's History. The club was begun ten years ago with ten charter members. A. C. Kent was the commodore, E. Tracy Brown was vice-commodore, and J. C. Harlow acted as secretary. Now there are sixty-five launches on the river that belong to members of the club and the organization has increased in usefulness as well as size. Last year over two hundred and fifty dollars were expended in clearing the river of obstructions. The work was carried on near Indian Ford when the river was at its lowest point, and for miles the river is now practically safe for launch travel. Before the work was begun, the channel and bed of the river was impeded as a waterway, with huge boulders ranging in size from six inches to two feet high and rendering boating, on account of the shallowness of the river below the Ford, exceedingly dangerous. Besides this a dry dock, installed at a cost of $175, has been placed alongside the club landing, making it possible for one person to land up for repairs, at any time, the largest launch on the river and to accomplish the work inside of five minutes. The improvements this year have been principally in removing stumps from the bed of the river and in keeping up the improvements made in past years, so that a practically safe course extends up the river as far as to the point where the Catfish John Stock river.

Aside from helping along the sport by the improvements made, the club acts as a sort of protector of the interests of those who belong to it. Not only does this police power extend to the launches and bathhouses, but to up-river cottages and other property as well. A standing reward of fifty dollars has been posted by the club for information leading to the arrest of all who break into bathhouses and cottages and this, coupled with the strength of sixty-five men united to protect not only themselves but others as well has been a powerful factor in reducing the number of depredations committed.

The officers of the club who have presided during the past year are: J. C. Harlow, commodore; F. P. Plerson, vice-commodore, and F. C. Burpee, secretary.

FREE HIDES ARE ON THE PROGRAM

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE DECIDES MANY MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE.

IT IS UNOFFICIALLY STATED

That While They Have Not Agreed on This Particular Item It Will Be Found in the Amended Bill.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, D. C., July 24.—Hides will be put upon the free list and existing rates on all leather goods will be substantially reduced, some of them below the duties fixed by either the house or senate tariff bills.

While no vote was taken on the hide question by the conference committee today, practically every member admitted when the recess was taken at one o'clock that this program would be adopted.

As those who have contended for the retention of a duty on hides have demanded a greater reduction in leather schedules than it is believed will be made, the conference refused to speak of the results attained at formal executive session conference committee. Therefore, while there is little doubt that hides are to be put on free list, a variety of opinions are expressed concerning the duties to be fixed upon leather.

GAZETTE'S BIG CONTEST GAINS HEADWAY EACH DAY

Event Fairly On and Interest of Entire Community is Aroused.

POSITION OF CANDIDATES MOST IN EARNST ARE AMONG LEADERS.

With the close of the voting yesterday, a. m. almost every contestant in all the districts had been heard from and their count materially increased over what they had received at the close of the box on Thursday morning. On all sides interest in the great popular contest is taking a great increase and patrons are selecting their favorite candidates, for whom they are voting liberally.

The leaders are increasing their votes and those who are in the contest in earnest are gaining every day. It is interesting to keep check on the battle of ballots, and every day makes some change in the relative position of some candidate. Now it is one contestant that receives a boost toward the top and then another, that the standing as published in the paper does not tell the whole story. It is a good thing to keep near the head of the list, but it is a greater advantage to have a reserve, of which one knows nothing, and which can be brought into good play later on. With all your votes in the paper, it is an easy matter for one to see exactly what you have and how many it will take to beat you in the end.

Industrious Forge Ahead.

The list of candidates and the number of votes received by each shows that the industrious are forging ahead in the battle of the ballots. The votes are free, but in many cases it is necessary for the candidates to go around among their friends and gather them in. These free votes are given for payments on subscriptions, for new subscriptions and also for coupons and nomination blanks printed in the paper daily. The votes on the subscriptions are free and the number is in proportion to the amount paid, at the regular rate.

Every part and phase of the contest has been planned out in the utmost fairness. The territory has been divided into districts so that candidates in one part will not be competing with more favorable conditions. In some contests the voting of purchased ballots has often been seen, the prizes away from those to whom they justly belonged. This practice is absolutely prohibited and cannot possibly happen by the system under which this contest is conducted.

The interest is such that friends of candidates call at the office to learn how some friend is progressing and letters of inquiry are received by every mail. New candidates are entering the contest, and without a doubt it will be the greatest popular vote contest ever conducted by a newspaper.

Check over the list, see what your friends are doing, what the other candidates are doing and who will probably win the magnificent array of prizes.

Care in Mailing Necessary.

Many contestants have been in the habit of mailing nomination blanks, and coupons, votes in the same envelope and have not taken care to separate the two. This has resulted in much trouble for the contest manager in counting the votes, owing to the fact that the two species of ballot must be separated before an accurate count can be made.

Contestants who mail nomination blanks and coupon ballots in the same envelope hereafter will be careful to see that the coupons and the nomination blanks are kept separate, so that both in the same envelope. Contestants would also confer a favor upon the manager by enclosing with them a slip of paper indicating the number of votes contained in the envelope. Then in case the first count of ballot agrees with the number contained on the slip it will eliminate the necessity of the contest manager counting the ballots twice; this means a great saving in time and trouble.

Still Time to Nominate.

It is possible that you will not find the name of the party you believe would be able to win one of the grand prizes in the following list. If such should be the case you are earnestly requested to nominate a candidate yourself. If you name any woman, a friend, a relative, or if you think you can go out and get enough votes to win a prize you may nominate yourself. Every candidate is provided with all the necessary information and subscription books necessary to conduct an energetic and successful campaign for votes.

Open Evenings.

For the benefit of those who cannot call during business hours this office and contest department will be open every evening until 8 o'clock.

From now on the count will be made at 9 o'clock each morning and the standing of that count will appear in the edition of the following evening.

Chief Letter-Writing Nation.
In one year the German emperor wrote no fewer than 7,000 personal and private letters. There seems to be a certain fitness in this, when it is remembered that Germany indisputably holds the title of being the chief letter-writing nation of Europe, for it has been shown that in one fiscal year it sent a total of nearly 8,000,000,000 pieces of mail-matter, while Great Britain and Ireland had less than 5,000,000,000 to their credit. France more than 1,000,000,000 less than that, while Russia and Italy each sent only about a sixth of what Germany did.

A Fact, But Indefinite.
While out walking with her papa and mamma one day, Florence, aged four, ran some little distance ahead. As she got near a mule hitched to a farmer's wagon, the animal began to bray. She wheeled instantly, and running to her mother as fast as she could, said in round-eyed astonishment: "Oh, mamma, smilin said smilin."—The Delicater.

Instruction in Time Tables.
At Kiel, Germany, instruction in the use of the railroad time table is a part of the curriculum in the elementary schools. It has been found that either the plan of railroad train books is so complicated or else that the people are so dense that the average adult cannot understand it. In the Kiel schools lectures are given on the time table and problems are set or questions put as to imaginary tours and the pupil with book in hand is required to answer.

LOVING CUP PRESENTED TO PRESIDENT JAMES B. ANGELL OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN BY THE STUDENT BODY.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—As a token of their high regard and love for their retiring President, the student body of the University of Michigan presented him with a magnificent loving cup, designed by Louis Sullivan, which cost more than one dollar. The cup, though simple, is extremely rich and original in design, and this thought on the part of the student body has pleased the aged President more than perhaps any one else. In rubber letters, is inscribed on the cup, "To Dr. James H. Angell, President of the University of Michigan, 1909-1910." The cup cost $500 and was paid for entirely by student subscriptions.

Completes in $36,000 golf stakes, Ralph Hoagland.

Chicago.—The biggest golf match from a financial standpoint is now under way between Ralph Hoagland, a member of the Chicago Golf club, and Mr. Cady, a member of the Western Club Association championship. The Chicago Golf club members backed Hoagland, claiming that he was champion of players over 35 years of age. The Rock Island golfers backed Cady. A match was arranged and a wager made on each of the 72 holes of $500 a hole, involving a possible total of $36,000 on the total. Ralph Hoagland won the first 36 holes of the match 8 up. Play of 36 holes more is to be held over the Chicago course. Hoagland is known as one of the best football officials of the country and was at one time a star player at Princeton.

Housekeepers Draw the Line Today Between Kitchen Drudgery and Kitchen Comfort

We Show a Pretty Strong Comparison Herewith That Will Surely Bring Your Decision in Favor of the GAS RANGE

On This Side We Have Kitchen Drudgery

A multiplicity of antiquated ideas: hatchet, poker, shovel, dust brush, stove lid lifter, kindling wood, as well as other useless accessories.

Smoke, dust, ashes, heat and odor. . .

Clothing soiled, temper tried, time lost.

Maybe you will get your fire started in time to cook a meal—and maybe you won't.

Make yourself the ashman, fireman and engineer, all in one.

Finally, you have what "used-to-be" a cooking appliance—and the sooner the old iron man gets it, the better you will be satisfied with life.

Watch the coal and wood stove go.

On This Side We Have a Modern Cooking Appliance

BECAUSE.

It is superior to others from point of durability.

For safety and general reliability it is in a class by itself.

It is free from dirt, smoke, soot, ashes and other annoyances.

It is always ready. Turn a valve and you get what you want, when you want it.

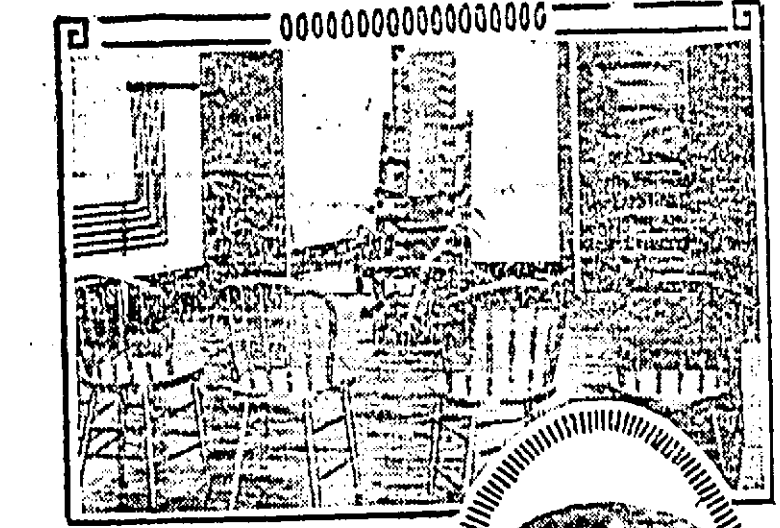

'Twill brown a steak, bake a cake, cook anything—with almost mechanical exactness, as the flame is under absolute control.

It doesn't transform your kitchen into an engine room in the summer time.

It saves time every day of your life. No housekeeper can point with pride to her kitchen until a gas range has been installed.

We illustrate our Cabinet Gas Range. It has five burners: one double burner, three single burners and one simmering burner. It has a baking oven, a warming oven and broiling oven, all heated with same burners. The oven is placed conveniently so as to obviate the necessity of stooping. The price, $30. Other styles of gas ranges at $13.50 and up. Terms one-third cash, balance in 6 equal monthly payments. We have all styles of gas ranges on display at our office.

Chester A. Jordan and the electric chair at Charlestown, Mass. which will claim him and five Chinamen.

Charlestown, Mass.—One white man, Chester A. Jordan, the convicted wife murderer of Somerville, Mass., and five Chinese, convicted murderers in the Tong war of Boston's Chinatown nearly two years ago, will pay the penalty for their crimes in the electric chair at Charlestown state prison within a few weeks. This is one of the electric execution apparatuses in the county, the other being at Sing Sing prison, New York.

The five Chinamen who are facing the death chair as a result of the shooting up of Chinatown a year ago last August were brought into court to receive their sentence Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Originally the Chinese were placed on trial for the Chinatown murders. One died during the trial, the case against one was not pressed and of the others, Min Sing, Hon Woon, Leong Sang and Joe they were found guilty of murder in the first degree, and Wary Charles was found guilty of being an accessory before the fact.

This is the first time in the history of the state of Massachusetts that five men have been sentenced to death at one time. The electric chair is used in the execution of the condemned.

money from circulation until the shortage of currency menaced the country and threatened dire disaster. Congress was obliged to provide for the emergency, and all sorts of theories were advanced as the best way out of the dilemma.

The fact was overlooked that confidence was the only thing that needed restoring, until nature and the soil came to the rescue, and $8,000,000,000 of new wealth was turned into the lap of the nation in a single year, and duplicated twelve months later.

Then it was that "emergency currency" was forgotten, for the fact was fully demonstrated that the pocket-book of the nation is in the hands of the people, with the money and wealth so widely distributed that the shrinkage in stocks and bonds, and the loss to a handful of millionaires, is not of lasting significance.

People who enjoy worrying, devote considerable time to discussing nature's resources, and attempt to prove by statistics how much time will transpire before they are exhausted. Twenty years ago they predicted that soon all kinds of building would cease because there would be no more lumber, but another store-house was discovered and today steel and cement have taken the place of the forest, to large extent.

The old board sidewalk is a thing of the past. Steel rails are taking the place of wood, and when some substitute is found for wood pulp, the forest tree will be preserved for ornament. It is estimated that the unbracketed coal fields will last in half a century, and some people are already worrying about their coal bins, but the chances are that hunting as well as lighting will be done by electricity, long before the coal supply gives out, and the energy extracted from common, everyday sunshine.

It is well to remember that the God who created, planned a long way ahead, and that nature's storehouses are simply waiting to be uncovered. If the last generation could come back the representatives would find it difficult to recognize the old world on account of new discoveries.

Experience has demonstrated that there is nothing so important, in the realm of nature, that its loss can not be made good by some substitute infinitely better.

What is true of nature is true in a larger sense of men, and Mr. Harriman was right when he said that no man was large enough to leave much of a hole when he dropped out.

The surprising thing is that so many people seem possessed of the notion that the whole machinery will stop when they let go. Some men are so impressed with this idea that they never take time to rest or play, and many a careful housewife wears herself out scrubbing and fighting dirt, while her daughter accompanies her on the piano.

These overworked men would be benefited by a vacation, now and then, and their business would not suffer, because the boys, who have been overshadowed, would have a chance to show what was in them, for there is nothing which develops ability like responsibility.

These tired mothers might better take a nap after dinner, and give the girls a chance. They need the experience and they won't be motherless quite so soon if permitted to share the burdens.

Business rarely suffers permanent loss when men drop out by the way, for their places are soon filled and their names forgotten.

These are not the tragedies of life. They are found in the homes, where the main stay of the family is taken, and the wife and mother left to fight the unequal battle alone.

The old woman in black, who passes your door, with feeble step, has met with a loss which time can never make good, for the companion of half a century, on whom she leaned for support, has gone, and the light of happiness has faded from eyes already dim with age.

A young man was drowned the other day, near Harvard. He was a Scotch boy and the money he saved had just been sent home to bring his widowed mother across the sea, for he had planned to make her a home. A cable message advised the mother of her great loss, just as she was ready to start.

And so the tragedies of life go on. These are the losses which fill the world with sorrow, and but for the hope of immortality, which is like an anchor to the soul, would lead to despair.

When all the nations have disarmed and thrown their swords away, and we no longer are alarmed by threats of fiery fray, we ought to be a happy lot, for we must BALMY that Peace, and Peace alone, PEACE will hit the spot, and make our troubles cease. So let us sing of balmy Peace, and raise a joyous din, and keep on singing till the piece come up and run us in. But sometimes, when the stars swing low, and I sit down to dream upon the blessings that will flow from Peace, as in a stream, a dire foreboding comes along, and another in my breast, and from my heart the glad sweet song of Peace goes galley west. For when we shoot our swords and guns, we'll wonder just the same, and of the powers the stronger ones will climb the weaker's frame; then there will be no cannon's shock, no hosts of armed goliaths; but we must just depend on talk to settle our disputes. Where now our armies guard the land, and march to bent of drum, a host of lawyer sharps will stand, and talk us blind and dumb. For this goes on for many sums we'll know that Peace is punk; we'll rush up the swords and guns, and such discarded junk.

THE SECRET.

Does the world owe a man a living? Yes—and no. It owes him a chance to earn a living, and, having given him the chance, he owes the world the service necessary to earn his living.

It was said in the beginning that a man must earn his bread by the sweat of his brow, not by the sweat of some other man's brow.

But some men eat bread for which no sweat has been expended.

And that is not the worst of it.

There are those who steal another man's opportunity to earn bread and by so doing steal the bread out of that man's mouth.

But, thank goodness, few men are entirely denied the chance to sweat for their bread. What plagues most of us is this:

We are crowded out of our opportunity to do what we would like to do. We are forced to take up an un-congenial task. We are willing to work, but we want to select the job.

Well, it is rather pitiful, but—

We cannot all of us be awarded the task we prefer. We may theorize and declaim on what society ought to be and ought to do, but after all our theories we must face things as they are and make the best of them.

Some philosophers say the secret of human happiness is only to be found in the doing of the work one most desires to do.

That is to be doubted.

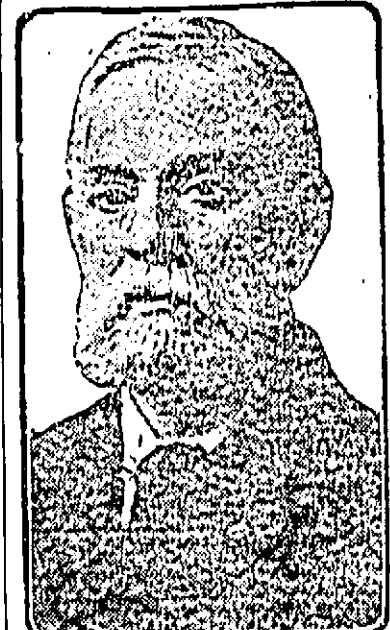

Happiness may be found that way, other things being equal, for it is undeniable there is a certain joy in a chosen task.

But there is another way in which happiness may be found—comparative happiness, for all happiness is comparative—and it is a deeper happiness than the mere joy of congenial labors.

That way is to do what thy hand findeth to do—do it cheerfully and heartily, and be therewith content.

Ah, my friend, if you are bravely doing the task that is next to you, denying yourself, sacrificing yourself, and if you are well satisfied to do that task manfully, ungrudgingly, until you can do better, you have got close to the secret.

It is a mighty poor philosophy that comforts only the man who gets everything he wishes for.

DENTAL CHAT

No tooth brush can thoroughly clean the teeth.

There is a lime crust that forms on the teeth from the saliva which is too hard for the brush to remove.

One should visit a dentist at least twice a year and have this tartar scraped off.

Then with daily use of tooth powder and brush the teeth can be kept in good order and preserved.

Neglect of the daily brushing allows the food particles to ferment and produce a destructive action on the enamel.

Teeth are good friends to us.

They deserve better care than they usually receive.

DEVOUR FRUIT OF MUSA SAPIENTUM

JANESVILLE PEOPLE EAT 63,000 EVERY WEEK.

REMINDS ONE OF JUNGLES

And Ferocious Wild Beasts But Only Is Botanical Name For the Banana Plant.

If some one told an average, unassuming citizen of Janesville that the grover had sold him a dozen M. sapiens, of the plant musa sapientum belonging to the natural order Musaceae, and that further more he had eaten two or three, this same citizen would undoubtedly become either exceedingly wrath in view of his informant's belief that he would eat anything with such a name or frightened because he had eaten it, and hurry to apply the time worn remedy hot water and mustard or hasten to a physician for a stomach pump.

But he might have spared himself the trouble and fright for there are something like 63,000 of these paradisiacal eaten every week in Janesville. People don't call them just that for they are more generally known as bananas. "Banana" is what the Italian with the bush cart generally says, which by the way denotes that at one time it was thought that the banana was the forbidden fruit in the garden of Eden. 63,000 of this species of tropical fruit is "some banana", especially as this means 63,000 nearly every week in the year. That is 9,000 a day or over half a banana a day for every inhabitant of Janesville.

These figures may seem surprising but a careful canvass shows that there are that many consumed in this city. The demand is constant throughout the year. Once a week this city receives a car load of the tropical fruit. The car holds about 625 bunches, each bunch has an average of 100 bananas. That makes the 63,000. The bananas sell from fifteen to twenty cents per dozen. The average price that Janesville pays a week for bananas is then over $428.

These figures are apt to be surprising in view of the fact that not so many years ago, the greater portion of the inhabitants of the United States had never seen a banana. It was an old German woman, who after eating one, was asked how she liked it. She said that it was no good. Very likely it did taste bad, especially the skin for she explained later that she had eaten the whole thing, skin and all.

Many people suppose that bananas grow on trees but that is not the case. They grow on plants that look like trees, sometimes fifteen or twenty feet high and with leaves that are ten feet long and two feet wide. Some of the large bunches weigh as much as eighty pounds. They are not all of the same kind for there are over 176 varieties of bananas raised in the tropics.

SCENE AT THE CURNING OF THE NEW DOTY COAL SHED LAST WEEK.

CIRCUS APPROACHES FORTY BOYS GOING TO THE LAKE CAMP

Here Next Friday to the Delight of the Small Boy and Many Grown Ups.

Was there ever a herald like the man who announces the approach of the circus? Was there ever a more grandiloquent utterance than his? Was there ever a herald who was heard more willingly or who held his audience more sure? He comes out of the winter with a superb confidence; he moves bravely, he talks boldly, he proclaims the wonders of his feats in convincing superlatives. Everybody reads his proclamations with determination to attend. There is in it a pleasant anticipation for all, for the young because the experience is new, and for those who are older because of the memories awakened of the memories of a boy or girl who years ago stood before the billboards and marveled at the unfamiliar and intricate acrobatic feats there pictured, who stood in the throng upon the street and saw the parade go by and who later saw the reality from some hard-earned seat under the canvas.

The circus, like love's story, is old but ever new. As baseball is the national sport, the circus is the national amusements. It is a purely democratic institution, giving alike for the same price to the rich and the poor, and holding them all in the same thrall of expectancy and wonder. It has gone on so long that there seems to be no reason why it should not go on forever.

The herald of the Barnum and Bailey Greatest Show on Earth, which will exhibit in Janesville next Friday, announces that the performance this year, while retaining the interesting features of previous seasons, will present new and startling acts. Promises are made that the street pavement will prove a free carnival of entertaining merriment.

TOWN TALK

County Clerk Lee, who is ever fond of telling a good story on someone else, told one on himself, at the inception of County Treasurer A. M. Church, and then was sorry for it.

It seems that the county clerk is extremely fond of spring chickens especially as prepared by Mrs. Lee. This spring he decided to have some more of those spring chicken feasts and set a hen, putting sixteen eggs, or what were supposed to be sixteen eggs under her. On the morning that the eggs were due to hatch, the county clerk found four or five chickens nestled under the mother hen. He removed them and put the bird back on the nest and thought no more of it until he returned home that evening. As he came up the walk, his small son greeted him with a smile and said, "Daddy, how many eggs do you think that hen hatched out?" "Oh, I don't know," replied Mr. Lee. "How many?" "Oh, guess!" "Well, maybe six or seven." "No, fifteen." "Well, that's pretty good." "Yes, and maybe if you had let her sit three or four weeks longer she would have hatched the other one. It was a nest egg."

Silence and Rest Cure.

Dr. Weir Mitchell is very successful in his cure of women suffering with nervous diseases, and a part of his rest cure is silence. One of the values of silence, he says, is that during that period a woman may not tell her troubles, for talking of one's troubles, contrary to the generally accepted idea of its being comforting, is deleterious to the general constitution. It reduces the vital force and weakens the person who pours her griefs into a friend's ear tenfold more than would the effort of suppressing her grief. He does not allow her friends to visit the patient because that would mean that they would be told her troubles. Oriental women, who do not talk as much as Americans, are healthier and their tempers are more soothing.

SUMMARY OF CASE.

The first charges of fraud were made by William H. Berry, state treasurer, in 1906. After the election of Edwin S. Stuart and the convening of the legislature in 1907 a commission was appointed to make investigation.

After the investigation fourteen men were indicted by the Dauphin county grand jury.

On Jan. 27, 1908, Sanderson, Snyder, Mathews and Shumaker were placed on trial in Harrisburg, before Judge Kunkel, on charges of conspiracy and fraud.

On March 13, 1908, these four men were convicted.

A new trial was refused and the convicted men were sentenced to serve two years in the Eastern penitentiary.

The appeal to the Superior Court was then taken.

Philadelphia.—Unless the supreme court overrules the decision of the superior court William P. Snyder and James Shumaker, state officials who were convicted in the sensational state capitol grafting case, will have to go to jail. John H. Sanderson, the capitol treasurer and William L. Mathews, former state treasurer, who were convicted at the same time, were included in the decision, but were spared from going to jail by the intervention of death.

The sentence was two years in prison and a fine of $500.

The action of the superior court in sustaining the conviction reached in the Dauphin county court before Judge George Kunkel is final unless the supreme court allows an appeal. This is not the usual course, but the supreme court can, if it sees fit, allow such an appeal first to one justice, who calls the whole court together to listen to the reason why it should be allowed.

Put a Blame Up to Owners.

Following a series of fatalities in New York, Judge Swann has laid down a rule of law which may help to fix the public regulation of automobile traffic. "The law presumes," said the judge, "that when an owner puts in his machine a reckless chauffeur he knows the ordinary act the man is going to commit."

Every Graduate Placed or Tuition Refunded

In selecting a Commercial School the paramount question arises as to which is THE BEST. The school that trains young men and women to meet the requirements of the business world, the school for whose graduates there is a demand greater than it can supply, is the school you want to attend, because, first of all you know that you have been trained the way the business man wants you trained.

WHY DO WE ENROLL SO MANY STUDENTS WHO HAVE TAKEN COURSES IN OTHER ADVERTISED SCHOOLS? Simply because they find their training entirely inadequate to meet the needs of the modern office. Just yesterday we enrolled a student who had spent some time in a neighboring school, ATTRACTED BY THE SUCCESS OF OUR GRADUATES. Another young lady after spending 9 months in a Milwaukee school found she was not qualified and came to us and took our course of training. She has now an excellent position in a bank at a large salary. We will supply names and addresses to any one requesting.

This school is in a class far above the ordinary Business College. Highest standards are maintained, the best Teachers money can engage, the best Systems of Bookkeeping and Shorthand, modern Equipment, an unqualified endorsement of the business and professional men of our city and community, and the fact that every graduate we have turned out is now employed, enables us to make the proposition: "YOUR MONEY BACK IF WE DO NOT PLACE YOU IN A GOOD POSITION AFTER YOU HAVE GRADUATED." And this means more than GETTING a position, it means you will HOLD it, which is the test of your training. Not one of our graduates ever lost a position from lack of ability to hold it.

We just received this letter from Chicago yesterday: Chicago, Ill., July 20, 1909. Southern Wisconsin Business College, Janesville, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen: We are having a great number of calls for stenographers. If any of your former graduates are in the city, or if any of your good beginners are desirous of working in the city, we should be very glad to have them call on us.

Very truly yours, FINDERWOOD TYPEWRITER CO., Per M. R. Ganson, Manager.

Similar letters have been received from Milwaukee, and right here in Janesville we have three good positions (not $2 or $3 a week positions) that we cannot fill because we have not a single graduate unemployed. This in the summer months too, in the busy season we have a greater demand.

Let us fit you to fill one of these many positions. Remember, they are the BEST positions with the BEST firms.

Write, call or phone for full information.

BRIDE BARES THE CRIME

INDUCES HUSBAND OF TWO WEEKS TO CONFESS MURDER TO POLICE.

SAYS SHE'LL STICK TO HIM

Mrs. J. L. Byrd, Formerly an Indiana Girl, Hears Bridgegroom Admit Slaying Man in Memphis, Tenn., Two Years Ago.

Denver, Col., July 24.—Urged by his bride of two weeks to tell the truth, J. L. Byrd is in a police station cell, the confessed murderer of Joseph Black, who was slain in Memphis, Tenn., two years ago. The prisoner at first gave his name as James Robinson and denied that he was Byrd.

Byrd was married two weeks ago at Colorado Springs and with his bride was enjoying his honeymoon at Denver. The prisoner's wife, Miss Synia Robinson, came to Denver with her parents from Terre Haute, Ind.

Bride Tells Him to Speak. Robinson's confession followed a talk with Chief of Police Armstrong in the latter's office. Robinson's bride of two weeks, who was present, finally interrupted.

"Jimmie, if you are the man, tell them," she said. "It will make no difference to me, because I will stick by you no matter what the circumstances."

There was silence for a moment. Then Robinson, white and shaking, owned up.

"Chief," he said, "I am the man you want. I killed Black because I thought my life was in danger. We engaged in an argument over a baseball bat and he started toward me with an open knife in his hand."

"I seized the only weapon at hand, a shoe stretcher, and struck him over the head with it. I did not mean to kill him. I didn't tell you before on account of my wife."

Byrd added that Black previously had insulted him several times.

"Wishes He Hadn't Fled. "For two years I have been wishing that I'd never left home," he said, "and now that I've been caught and told my story, I am happy and will go back there and clear up everything and commence to live right."

Robinson said that in a panic of fear after his fatal encounter with Black, he went to Texas, stayed there a few days, then came to Colorado later going to San Francisco and Seattle and returning to Colorado, where he secured employment.

Charge Against Prisoner. Memphis, Tenn., July 24.—J. L. Byrd, who is under arrest at Denver, Col., is wanted here for the murder of Joseph Black, who was killed on July 6, 1907, at No. 4 North Main street, where both Black and Byrd were employed as shoe clerks. It is alleged that Byrd struck Black in the head with a blunt instrument following an altercation over a trivial matter. He escaped immediately after the fight and successfully evaded the police until recognized in Denver by A. A. Collins of this city.

Should a dispatch from Covington, Tenn., prove correct, it is not improbable that Byrd is answerable to the charge of bigamy. According to the Covington dispatch the man's wife and two children reside with her father near Covington, and so far as can be ascertained neither party has obtained a divorce.

CATS ON STATESMEN'S STEPS. Tawney, Mann and Smith "Rewarded" for Feline Support.

Washington, July 24.—Three little pussy cats, surnamed Tawney, Mann and Smith, and answering to the given names of James Jimmie and Sammy, were left on the doorsteps of three senate statesmen in the capital by a "cat lover." The cats, or more properly speaking, kittens, were the gift of some citizen or citizens who admired Messrs. Tawney, Mann and Smith for their interests in homeless cats.

Although congress did not appropriate money for a cat pound such as was wanted by the District Humane society, these congressmen expressed great gobs of pity for the poor little fellows, who have to sleep on picket fences. When the cats reached their destination they were gorgeously decorated in red, white and blue ribbons. Neither Mr. Smith, Mr. Mann nor Mr. Tawney needed a cat. Consequently Jimmie, James and Sammy have been adopted by the respective negro messengers of the three statesmen.

Danville, Ill., July 24.—A motor car driven by Richard Cannon, a nephew of Speaker Cannon, dashed over an embankment while running at high speed, near Crawfordville, Ind., and turned over in a ditch. Cannon's companion, John Noone, a brewer of this city, was caught under the car and was so seriously injured that he probably will die. Cannon was painfully bruised.

These are known as the first "protection-money" indictments.

There are a number of counts in the indictments which were returned before Judge Kiekham Seaman. One count charges the men with having collected money on the pretense of using it to bribe police officials. Another accuses them of having pocketed their receipts.

TWO DIE IN CLOUDBURST; ILLINOISAN AMONG DEAD

Picnic Party Caught in a Fatal Deluge in Mountains Near Boulder, Col.

Boulder, Col., July 24.—It is feared today that two deaths will be added to the victims of yesterday's cloudburst, making four fatalities as a result of the violent rush of water at Two-Mile Canyon.

The dead: Vernon Carlisle, aged 13, Robinson, Ill. Arthur Dickerman, aged 25, Greeley.

The seriously injured are: Mrs. Abbott, Garden City, Kan.; Zera Carlisle, Robinson, Ill.

The victims were members of a picnic party. When the rain began to fall the party sought shelter under a huge boulder. Presently a torrent swept down the canyon to a depth of two feet. All widely scrambled for safety. The walls of the canyon were precipitous and it was with great difficulty that they found places of safety.

Six were able to gain shelter, but in adding their companions, Dickerman and Carlisle were swept down with the torrent.

Among those who escaped were: Mrs. Rose of Robinson City, Ill., and Miss Robinson of Omaha, Neb.

Jerome Will Fight Thaw. As he took his cigar, Lord Blank said: "When old Clay was alive he made a good cigar, but his sons don't keep up his reputation." "Henry Clay? Why, he didn't make cigars; he was a statesman, and ranked as high with us as Gladstone or John Bright do in your country." "I beg your pardon. I've smoked these cigars all my life, and I tell you old Clay made a d— slight better cigar than his boys do."

Mineral Wealth of Philippines. Then come the mines; workable gold placers; copper; and in several of the islands, notably Cebu, coal. The vice-governor of the islands has a project for building a great coal pocket at Manila which is to be supplied from the mines of Cebu and from which an ocean steamer can be loaded in a few minutes as is done on the great lakes at home. Cheap fuel is of course necessary for industries and electric light, as well as steamship.

The islands have an unused source of wealth in the water powers of the mountains, which are certain to be harnessed before many years. Still there is no evidence as yet that the Philippines are very much richer in precious metals or in coal than Japan.

Making Money On the Farm

V.—Wheat Raising

By C. V. GREGORY.

Author of "Home Course in Modern Agriculture"

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

ONE of the most important grain crops grown in this country is wheat. It is second in value and acreage only to corn. Notwithstanding the great importance of wheat, the little attention has been paid to improved methods of culture. Wheat is largely looked upon as an extensive crop. Most farms in the wheat belt are large. This is especially true of the spring wheat belt in northwestern United States and southern Canada. It is no uncommon sight there to see a section or more in one field. Wheat follows wheat year after year. Little live stock is kept, and no manure is applied to the land. Under this treatment the seemingly exhaust-less supply of fertility is becoming worn out. The humus especially has been used rapidly, with no source of renewal. Usually it does not take more than a decade of continuous wheat growing to reduce the yield one-half. Conditions in the winter wheat belt are no better, but there is much room for improvement there also. Not only is continuous wheat growing hard on the soil, but it does not distribute the work evenly throughout the year. In the spring there is a rush to get the seed in. In the fall there is a still greater rush to get the crop harvested and thrashed. The rest of the year there is little to do. What the wheat farmer needs is diversification—more live stock, more crops and rotation. The wheat belt and the corn belt should be mixed up more. Many farmers in the corn belt raise wheat as one of the leading small-cash crops. Many others would find it profitable to do so.

Classes of Wheat. Wheat is divided into two general classes—winter and spring. Winter wheat is sown in the fall, makes a considerable growth and comes up and heads out the next season. Spring wheat is sown in the spring in much the same manner as oats. In Minnesota, the Dakotas and other states of the same latitude or farther north spring wheat is the only kind that can be grown successfully since the severe winters are fatal to the fall sown varieties. In the northwest, however, the warm winds from the Pacific so moderate the climate that winter wheat can be grown successfully. Farther south, in the winter wheat belt, the bulk of the wheat is sown in the fall. There are many objections to winter wheat. It does not make as high a quality of flour owing to the smaller gluten content. It is the gluten that gives the gummy consistency to bread when dough that causes it to rise when mixed with yeast. Winter wheat occasionally winter kills, resulting in a loss of the seed and the work of seeding. The most serious objection in the corn belt is that it does not work in well after corn, which is the accustomed place for small grain in the rotation. These objections are overbalanced, however, by its greater yielding ability. The start which it gets in the fall enables it to come up much more vigorously in the spring and give about twice as many bushels per acre as can be obtained from the spring varieties.

Wheat is further subdivided into hard and soft varieties. The soft wheat makes a flour that is unsuited to breadmaking because of its lack of gluten. It is used extensively in making crackers. The amount of soft wheat grown for market is comparatively small.

A new variety of wheat known as macaroni has been introduced into the western states within the last few years. It is very high in gluten and is much used in the manufacture of macaroni. It does not make a very high quality of bread owing to its yellowish color. The chief advantage of macaroni wheat is that it can be grown in regions where the rainfall is too scanty for the standard varieties.

Will Wheat Run Out? There is a widespread impression that wheat will run out if grown in the same locality for a number of years. Experiments at a number of stations show that this is not so. The real cause for wheat running out is continuous culture on the same land, with little attention paid to seed selection. Another fact that the standard varieties are superior to most of the varieties brought out to market of late years. Every year seedsmen make claims of wonderful yields obtained from new varieties, not only of wheat, but of other crops as well. In most cases these claims are entirely unfounded. Before introducing a new variety it will pay to write to your expert station for information regarding it. Even if they recommend it the safest plan is to try only a few acres at first until you see whether or not it is adapted to your particular locality.

Where winter wheat can be grown it will pay to raise it in spite of its disadvantages. It can be worked into the rotation, by sowing it after oats in a rotation of corn, oats, wheat, clover. The clover seed may be scattered on the ground among the wheat plants early in the spring. Another method of using winter wheat in the rotation is to cut the corn early for silage or fodder and sow the wheat on the corn stubble ground. The trouble with this method is that it is usually so late before the corn can be got off the ground that the wheat does not get enough of a start to enable it to withstand an extra severe winter. There is an advantage in having wheat follow corn or some other cultivated crop in that the weeds will bother much less. The work of seeding is also less since the ground does not need to be plowed.

Preparing the Ground. Wheat, like oats, needs a firm seed bed. Corn ground which has been run over twice with a disk is an ideal seed bed. It is fine and mellow on top and firm beneath. There is nothing to prevent the capillary moisture from rising rapidly to the loose top layer, where it is held just where the roots need it. When wheat follows some other small grain the ground is so hard that, except in the case of very loose soils, the disk will have little effect on it. Such ground must be plowed. Plowing for wheat does not need to be very deep. Many farmers practice burning the stubble before plowing, since in this way many insects and weeds are destroyed, and the capillary connection is restored quicker. Some humus is lost in this way, but the advantages gained in many cases make it more profitable to obtain the needed humus in some other way.

The soil should be well disked and harrowed after plowing to make a fine, compact seed bed. With wheat, as with oats, considerably better yields are obtained by the use of a drill. In loose or dry soils the press of a drill is a big advantage. The wheels that follow pack the soil over the seeds. This brings the soil into closer contact with the wheat grains, and they will absorb moisture faster and begin to grow sooner. This quickness of starting is of much importance in fall sown wheat near the northern limit of the winter wheat belt, since there everything depends on the wheat making a good growth before the winter freezes. Earliness of seeding is important for the same reason. If you cannot get your winter wheat in early—and by early is meant the first half of September—it is better to wait until spring and sow a spring variety.

The ground for spring wheat should be prepared in much the same manner as for oats. The rate of seeding where a drill is used should be five or six pecks to the acre, with either spring or winter varieties. When sown broadcast a peck more will be needed. If there is much snow present the seed should be treated as outlined for oat sowing in article No. 4. The seed should be fanned and graded and tested for germination.

Rotation in Wheat Farming. In the great spring wheat regions the introduction of a crop of clover every two or three years will materially increase the yield. The growing of clover will mean some live stock to eat it, and the manure thus obtained will still further increase the wheat yields. The introduction of some of the other grain and forage crops will equalize the demands upon the soil and add to the profits obtained from wheat.

FIG. 13.—WHEAT WELL STACKED. The farm. Experiments at the Minnesota station showed an increase of 50 per cent, or seven bushels to the acre, in wheat following cultivated crops over wheat grown continuously. During fits in very well with wheat farming, especially in localities so far north that corn cannot be successfully grown as a grain crop. In such districts the flint varieties can be raised for silage and fodder. The wheat following this corn will be freer from rust, scab and weeds and will yield much more. The cows will yield a good profit for all the feed they consume, and the work will be more evenly distributed throughout the year.

When wheat is grown to be sold to the flour mills the price will depend directly upon the quality. To get the best quality wheat should not be cut until it is fully ripe. It should not be allowed to stand too long after it is ripe or it will shatter out badly. Wheat should be well shocked and capped. If not well capped the bran will become stained and cracked, injuring the appearance and lowering the price. Stacking is more advisable than shock thrashing since it means better quality and more full plowing.

So much depends on the quality of the grain and the quality is so dependent on cultivation and harvesting that it behooves him who is after satisfactory results to make a close study of the situation. It does not pay to cultivate wheat intelligently and harvest it in a manner that makes all previous care and labor of little avail.

ONLY WOMEN TEND BAR

Interesting Description of the City and the Habits and Characteristics of the People.

It is a queer experience for the traveler to see the excitement among the passengers on an ocean steamer

when, after seven days' ocean trip,

it is announced that next day land will be in sight and passengers for Ireland land.

We were out of our beds at one o'clock in the morning; it was twilight and after a little we saw a cloud lying low upon the horizon, and did not realize that just beyond was the Glasgow harbor, where the home of wealth and happiness, now oppressed

by misadministration of her public affairs.

I went forward into the bow of the ship and there, crowded as sardines in a box, were a dozen or more people, eagerly scanning the horizon.

What longing and eagerness was depressed in their faces. Their countenances would have made a study for an artist. They were Irish, a number of old men and women, some younger.

The older people had probably left their island home years before, and had grown gray in a distant land.

They were returning to the land of their childhood and youth, not only were they looking for land but for their own native land, after years of absence.

What feelings, what emotions must have been theirs, when Ireland's green hills came into sight as we entered the bay of Londonderry; what a flood of early recollections, and fond memories must have flashed upon them.

I can in some measure appreciate their feelings, when I recall with what emotion I looked upon Ireland as an entire stranger, moved only by compassion for her misery and indignation toward her unjust rulers.

An Irish Woman's Wit.

A large Irish woman, tipping the hats at 300 pounds or more, with her hat on one side of her head, and five children behind her, ready to go into the little steamer that takes off socialist leader, Tardin, member of parliament, and others. The public square and parks are on Sundays and the evenings filled with audiences listening to the gospel of socialism—

only those religious street preachers who preach the brotherhood of man are sure of an audience.

In the lower courts of the houses,

where often 150 families live, spectaculars appear, thundering against the tyranny of wealth and painting the sufferings of the poor in high colors, and it is only the truth to say that the paintings are true to life.

Labor Supply Exceeds Demand.

Of course, here as elsewhere students of social problems have tried to find the real reason for this poverty. Some have claimed that drink is the cause, others imprudence, lack of foresight. But as one of the professors of the university told me, "The Scotch nation has been dividing from the creation of the world." The climate is damp, cold and seems to be stimulants. A business man, clad in the "Scotch" are a prudent, closefisted nation, and can make a shilling go longer than any other nation.

The real truth is, there are too many workers and too little work, the man who has money wants too large dividends, so as to enable him to live without work. We may build labor exchanges (ten stories high); we may cram them with clerks and sta-tionaries; get a whole lot of information stuffed into pigeonholes, but as long as the demand for workers falls short of the supply the "unemployed" will remain a perennial pest.

Public Baths Well Patronized.

Glasgow's public wash houses, with outdoor places for hanging up clothes to dry, are a boon to the poor. Their bath houses with baths from one penny up are well patronized. The city is doing its best to help, but poverty is increasing.

St. George's Cathedral and the cemetery, the Necropolis, are no doubt, the most interesting places. The first was built in the fourteenth century, and contains some fine monuments,

but its glory is in the "Gypsy" area which is famous for the "Gypsy" inhabitation. From the Necropolis one has some very fine views over the city. It contains numerous monuments, the most conspicuous the column in memory of John Knox. The University, with 2,500 students, is a very interesting building overlooking

Kelvin Park.

Religious Intolerance still reigns in Scotland and as I am told, also in England, and that fight, breaking up religious meetings, are frequent. The strife between Orangemen and Catholics still goes on.

Importations of Meat Products.

My attention was called to the importation of meat into this city, the greatest bulk coming from America.

In one week there was received here

2,643 cattle, 25,922 sheep and lambs,

131 boxes of pork, 3,797 boxes of beef products and 22,296 quarters of beef.

One butcher told me that if this importation was not made only one fifth of the population would be able to procure meat. Prices are about the same as in our own home. As there are thousands upon thousands of acres of grass lands in Scotland

it surprised me to see this large importation but I was told that most of the lands or owners preferred to rent their estates to foreigners for hunting purposes rather than trouble themselves with cattle or sheep-raising.

Taxing Laws and Suffrage Uppermost

The most important questions that seem to interest the people at present politically are the taxing bills, including land, income and beer taxes.

Even conservative Scotland reports crowded meetings and everywhere

you see the white badge of the Woman's Suffrage Association, its membership includes all classes, and the barnards are energetic in advocating the issue.

The barnards take the place of bar-keepers in the states. Men and women frequent the bars, but children by a late act of parliament are forbidden in the barrooms. A policeman told me that only a short time ago

a little five-year-old boy was found tied to a lamp post outside a saloon, his father wanting to obey the law,

but still have a drink. The father forgot the boy and went home.

The humor of the Scotch is well known. It is an old boot-maker who repaired my boots while waiting sang the following song, his young son playing the bagpipes.

The Widow MacDougall.

When I heard that my friend John a window fell and struck his foot, crushing it and causing it to bleed and two doctors immediately started for the home where Mr. Leahy was

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'GUTHGHEON

"I am glad that you understand," he said simply. His gaze was not straight before him, keen, alert, anxious. "I begin to fear, Mr. Chas.," she said, with a faint smile, "that Lady Deppingham deceived me in suggesting Japan as a rest cure. It may interest you to know that the court at Hapsburg has been very gay this winter. My brother, Christian, has been with us after two years' absence. He came with his wife from the ends of the earth, and my father forgave him in good earnest. Christobal was very disobedient in the old days. He refused to marry the girl my father chose for him. Was it not foolish of him?"

"Not if it has turned out well in the end."

"I dare say it has—or will. She is delightful. My father loves her. And my father—the grand duke, I should say—does not love those who cross him. One is very fortunate to have been born a prince." He thought he detected a note of bitterness in this rally.

"I can conceive of no greater fortune than to have been born Prince Karl of Hapsburg," he said lightly. She flashed a quick glance at his face, her eyes narrowing in the effort to divine his humor.

"As I was saying," she resumed after a moment, "Lady Deppingham has lured me from my slumbers into the forest. Mr. Chas.—and her face was suddenly full of real concern—"Is there truly great danger?"

"A question of time. I have tried to check this uprising, but I've failed. Last night Von Hiltz, Hapsburg, and others came to the bungalow and coolly informed me that my services were no longer required."

"Will you come with me now?" he asked. "I am more than ready to go to the 'go to'." "I understand," she said quickly. "It required courage to tell them that." He smiled. "They protested friendship, but I can read very well as I run. I can't find anything more agreeable to talk about? May I say that I have not seen a newspaper in three months? There must be news that you can give me. I am hungry for it."

"You poor man! No newspaper! Then you don't know what has happened in all these months?"

"Nothing since before Christmas. Would you like to see a bit of news that I clipped from the last Paris paper that came into my hands?"

"Yes," she said, vaguely disturbed. He drew forth his pocketbook and

"My handkerchief?" she gasped, her thoughts going at once to that ridiculous incident of the balcony. "It must belong to Lady Deppingham."

"Oh, it isn't the one you used on the balcony," he protested coolly. "It antedates that adventure."

"Honey? I don't understand you," she protested. "Then you are exceedingly obtuse."

"I never dreamed that you could see," she confessed pathetically. "It was extremely nice in you and very presumptuous in me. But your highness, this is the handkerchief you dropped in the castle garden six months ago. Do you recognize the perfume?"

"You are very sentimental," she said at last. "Would you care to keep it? It is of no value to me."

"I've changed my mind," she said incontinently, stuffing the fabric in her garment. "You have something else in that pocketbook that I should very much like to possess."

"No, no. You wrapped it in a bit of paper last week and placed it there for safe keeping."

"You mean the bullet?"

"Yes. I should like to show to my friends, you know, when I tell them how near you were to being shot." Without a word he gave her the bullet that had dropped at his feet on that first day at the harbor. "Thank you. Oh, isn't it a horrible thing! Just to think, it might have struck you!" She shuddered.

He was about to answer in his doleful hum as a sharp turn in the road brought them in view of the chateau. Not a hundred yards ahead of them two persons were riding slowly, untended, very much occupied in themselves. Their backs were turned to toward Chas and the princess, but it was an easy matter to recognize them. The glance which shot from the princess to Chas found a peculiar smile disappearing from his lips.

"I know what you are thinking," she cried impulsively. "You are wrong—very wrong, Mr. Chas. Lady Deppingham is a born coquette—a born flirt. It is ridiculous to think that who can be seriously engaged in it." "It isn't that, princess," he interrupted, a dark look in his eyes. "I was merely wondering whether dear little Mrs. Browne is as happy as she might be."

THE ELECTRICAL WORLD

MEAT CUTTER RUN BY MOTOR

Largest Machine of Its Kind in the World Operated by Electrical Current.

It is interesting to note that a meat cutter, which is claimed to be the largest ever made, has been recently connected from steam engine to direct current motor drive, because of the delays formerly experienced in setting up steam, which materially reduced the output of the grinder. The meat cutter in question has a 43-inch bowl and six knives, each of which has a cutting edge 18 inches long. The power is supplied by a 20-horsepower motor.

In the factory where this outfit is installed the capacity is 25,000 pounds of sausage a day. This cutter can handle the entire output if desired, as it has a capacity of 250 pounds in five minutes.

One of the main reasons for the change from steam to motor drive was the saving in the expense for attendance of an engineer, as well as the greater convenience when motor driven. The direct eliminates belts, shafting, pulleys, etc., and effects a substantial saving in wear and tear.

Wireless Telegraph in China.

Consul Gracely, writing from Tientsin, says in regard to the plan for using wireless telegraph in China:

"The acting president of the board of communications has sent an order to the telegraph administration in Shanghai directing it to obtain from foreign firms tenders for wireless telegraphic installations which the government desires to establish between the Altai mountains and Ahsien, in the northwest of Chinese Turkestan."

"The question of a wireless telegraph installation in the interior was pointed out by the administration as one of the most important needs of China to-day. It is said the board considers it practically impossible to establish the ordinary land lines across the great deserts between Peking and the extreme northwest, but the natural difficulties could be surmounted by the use of wireless. Halsey's system is considered by the board to be the newest and most efficient, and the administration was instructed to make the necessary inquiries and was also given a list of questions as to the technical matters which it was its business to answer."

STRAWBERRIES ARE DYNAMOS

English Electrician Discovers Process Whereby Fruit Becomes Electrically Charged in Simple Way.

Strawberries and all other fruits, nuts and vegetables are small electric dynamos as discovered by an English electrician. The process whereby fruit becomes electrically charged is simple. Negative electricity is supplied by the earth to the soil, and the extent of such conductivity varies with the degree of moisture in the soil. Dry earth is a non-conductor, a fact strongly evident from the truth that unless the roots of the plant secure a certain percentage of moisture the plant dies. The moisture in the soil provides the sap which, spreading upward, flows to the uttermost extremities of the plant through the different arteries existing for such circulation.

The earth is always charged with negative electricity and the air with positive, the charging of the earth being secured by water. When the leaves begin to burst forth they become charged with negative electricity from the earth. As the leaf expands it also becomes inductively charged with positive electricity from the air, as likewise do the flowers. When the fruit commences to form, however, nature provides an impermeable insulator represented by the rind or peel enveloping the fleshy portion of the fruit, but at the same time the negative charging continues from the earth to the center or core through the stalk, this central negative cell being insulated from the positive fleshy cell by a thin skin.

New Flexible Non-Metallic Conduit.

A new flexible non-metallic conduit, known as "wire duct," has been invented, for which there should be a very wide field, if all the claims made for it can be substantiated in practice. Its fiber inner tube is attached to the middle tube by means of a helical band, which entirely prevents its being pulled out on wires being threaded through it; and the whole, while entirely non-conducting, has great flexibility and strength to resist both tensile strain and abrasion.

If you have real estate to sell, don't try to make special appointments with "time and tide," which "wait for no man," but "break into the market" through a classified advertisement.

To Improve Quality of Potatoes.

An extensive dealer in potatoes in Bermuda has shipped to Avoca, Stenben county, New York, 125 bushels of a choice variety of this year's crop, to be grown in that locality, the crop to be shipped back to Bermuda to use as seed for next season's planting. This method is adopted to obtain hardy and vigorous seed and in case the experiment is as successful as it is believed it will be it is probable that it will be repeated on a much larger scale in succeeding seasons. Most of the seed has already been placed among leading growers, who have contracted to grow it for 40 cents a bushel. Last year a Bermuda grower put this method to trial at Waterville, Long Island, and the idea is evidently gaining favor.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Daughters of time the hypocrite Days,
Muffled and dumb like barefoot dervishes,
And marching single in an endless file,
Bring dildos and fagots in their hands,
To teach they offer gifts after his will.
Bread, kingdoms, stars, and sky that holds them all,
I, in my plumed garden, watched the pomp,
Forgot my morning wishes, hastily,
Took a few herbs and apples, and the Day
Turned and departed silent. I, too late,
Under her solemn flit saw the face
—Emerson.

ARE you also taking a "few herbs and apples?"
It's a good question to ask yourself once in awhile.

It's a good question to answer solemnly and if need be, found some new resolutions upon.

I think it's very much truer than most people realize that "our days" to each one of us offer gifts "after his will."

I believe that to a great degree we can have what we want in this life.

There are very few things that are impossible.

All one needs is to want hard enough so that one will not be satisfied with "a few herbs and apples."

One does not, of course, obtain the thing one most wants without sacrificing many lesser desires.

You must be sure to decide rightly what you really do most want in life for all other things will have to be subordinated to that one.

If you are a woman and choose artistic success you cannot also hope to have love and children.

If you are a man and choose money you cannot also hope to have leisure and education.

But if you set your heart on any one thing and are ready to sacrifice everything—everything—also for it whatever your desire may be—a beautiful home—the love of some man, babies to fill your arms, laurel wreaths for your grave—I believe you can surely obtain it.

For the days to each offer gifts "after his will" and they are truly sorry when we take "a few herbs and apples."

Ruth Cameron

The Soda Drinker.

"Can you study human nature at the soda fountain?" asked the druggist, when asked the question. "Well, I guess yes. I am interested and estimate every day. According to my estimate, there is only one class of men that really enjoy their soda water or reap the full benefits of it."

"And what may that class be?" was asked.

"The lawyer. I doubt if you ever saw a lawyer in a hurry on the street. He doesn't come rushing into the store and gasp out what syrup he'll take in his, but he waunters in to ask:

"Well, Doc, have you any soda water?"

"I think so."

"Then I guess I'll take it. Give me lemon in mine."

"Now hurry at all, you know, and no kicking about the weather. I hand him a glass and he slips and stands back. Then he finds some one to talk politics to. While he talks he sips, and he is a queer ter of an hour finishing his drink. Sometimes he leaves a little in the glass, as if he thought for his blood. Collier just as stiff as when first ironed, and his mind at peace with all the world. I believe he gets as much benefit from the one glass as some men do from three, and everything goes off so easily that I hate to take his money. Go to the nut, though sluggish. In other words, take a pointer from the lawyers as to how to get 25 cents worth of good out of a 5 cent glass of soda water. The man who says it down don't know what a good thing it is."

HE WAS RAPE.

Buyer—Better be careful. You won't be in a position to carry for some years yet.

Scrubber—That's all right. The story was accepted by a pay-on-publication periodical.

Play Piano for Dad Children.

Dr. Julia Seton Sears, the renowned metaphysician, has done considerable experimenting at her school in Occu-wanna, N. Y., in correcting the faults of children without punishing them. Her advice to mothers is to play on the piano for their children when they are disobedient instead of punishing them. She says to play something the children know, as their childish emotions are not as responsive to unfamiliar music. She is convinced of the infallibility of this cure and says it is equally effective in the case of grown-ups. Worry, anxiety, care and irritability may all be soothed by certain classes of music, according to Dr. Sears.
